Bianca Brewster is an instructor at Laredo College where she oversees student research projects and teaches Environmental Science. She is currently working on a PhD in Environmental Engineering at TAMUK. She has worked for both the regulatory and private sector for different environmental programs. She was with TCEQ for three years in which she worked in the water and emergency response programs. She later moved on to work with an engineering firm where she conducted wetland delineations, migratory bird surveys, environmental site assessments and biological surveys. She now owns Brewster Environmental Quality Services, an environmental firm committed to working locally to improve the social, economic, and environmental well-being of our community. Bianca is a wildlife enthusiast, mainly interested in avian species and is a certified wildlife rehabilitator. Bianca served on the RGISC Board because she wants to help with local environmental issues and hopes to educate and serve as a guidance point for anything related to environmental regulations.
